SXPVA Submission for the Fourth Universal Periodic Review of the People's Republic of China.***

Joint statement submitted by Shaanxi patriotic Volunteer Association, in consultative status with the Economic and Social Council

Summary

China is scheduled to go through the fourth Universal Periodic Review (UPR) at the UNHRC in 2024. In order to present a NGO's assessment and stance on China's implementation of the key UPR recommendations provided by the UPR Working Group along with HRC recommendations, Shaanxi Patriotic Volunteer Association, in cooperation with "Beijing On Action International Cultural Center", has conducted a review assessment since April 2021, of China's human rights development since the third UPR cycle in 2018. This submission is the fruit of cooperation among multiple NGO's in China. It tries to highlight China's unique accomplishments in human rights development and demonstrate the link between China's best practices and the 2030 Agenda.

The report shows that China demonstrates a constructive cooperation with UNHR Bodies and makes substantial contribution to the development of International HR Regime. Since last UPR, China has ratified a range of HR treaties and received visits of the High Commissioners of UNHR and some other UN special procedures and experts.

The second part presents that China has been pursuing a practice and development path of human rights with Chinese characteristics by addressing income poverty, capability deprivation and social exclusion altogether and developed a unique Model of Poverty Alleviation.

The third part reviews China's effort, in alignment with the National HR Action Plan, in increasing protection of civil and political rights, promoting law-based administration and building a fair justice, and safeguarding citizen's freedom of religion, right to information, participation, expression, and right to hold government officials accountable.
